

Prophets' Stories

Created by Jan Pike

Published by the Bible Society

Contact: info@prophetstories.org.uk

Or: bibles@biblesociety.org.au

Prophets Stories

- Using the stories of the Prophets in grassroots Christian/Muslim dialogue
- Giving each other the time, space and 'hospitality' of really listening to the 'other Book's' story
- Exploring through asking questions and reflecting
- Discovering new things about God rather than expert teaching or 'telling' of the truth.
- A one day seminar enabling you to deliver this resource in your setting—toolkit provided.
- Assisting people to find their way into the Bible

The resource book includes:

Session Plans, notes on understanding the biblical and Qur'anic texts, the similarities and differences. Exercises to encourage listening. Pictures to help the telling of the stories.

Resource and seminars are sponsored by the Bible Society

This NEW resource is ideal for those working in the context of church projects which serve Muslim people in their neighbourhood, Friendship Houses, or those who have opportunity to share faith conversations on a regular basis. It may also be useful in school settings and Inter Faith Meetings .

It is a tool which enables groups of "every day" Muslim and Christian people to talk about what we understand about God, through the listening of and telling of the same prophet's story from both the Qur'an and the Bible. Starting with commonality and moving on to difference we cover the stories of Jonah, then Joseph, Noah, Adam, Abraham, Moses and Jesus. Together we learn how these stories teach us about God and what they might have to say to us today.

Myths about 'the other' are dismantled, fear and suspicion turn to love and respect, deep things are shared, new insights gained, and strong bonds are developed.

Initiated in the city of Bristol, UK and now used in other cities .